

Irish Women Rise in 1916

The Cumann na mBan mural celebrates Belfast women's involvement in the Irish independence movement. The Belfast branch included James Connolly's daughters, Nora and Ina. The Belfast branch was considered to be exceptional. It was active during the Easter Rising, with three contingents travelling to Dublin and stationed at Liberty Hall.

On April 3rd, 2014, An Post issued a stamp celebrating the Centenary of the founding of the Cumann na mBan.
