Our program is 25% funded by private donations and 75% funded by sales of donated items through our thrift store or other self-generated sales (fundraisers, yard sales, etc). We do not receive government support. Your support is undeniably the heart and soul of our program.

The song 'Grace' was written by brothers Sean and Frank O'Meara in 1985. Stewart recorded the song for his 2018 album Blood Red Roses. While Rod Stewart was in Ireland he went to Glasnevin Cemetery where he visited the grave of Grace Gifford, widow of one of the Easter Rising leaders Joseph Plunkett. Plunkett and Gifford married in jail, just minutes before Plunkett was executed for his role in the Rising. Rod Stewart got emotional when he met co-writers of haunting Irish song 'Grace'. He was momentarily lost for words upon being introduced to the brothers who wrote one of his favorite Irish songs – Grace.

Great respect to Rod Stewart for singing this classic Irish ballad, and sticking to the original lyrics

Just copy and past AND listen.
